What did the Daily do for you: The construction of lifelong friendships and networking contacts was the single most important career-boosting element of my experience at the Daily; the people who joined me in teaching, learning, and growing were instrumental in shaping my career goals, my exposure to opportunities, and my preparedness for the real-world workforce in journalism. I treasure the experience and all of those people today! Second, and no less critical, was the practical experience I gained, which set me far above and beyond my competitors for the best journalism internships, which in turn gave me even more of a leg up for the best entry-level jobs. My clips and leadership experience from the Daily vaulted me into the best of opportunities, with confidence and authority.
